About ITU 2026

The rapid development of AI is reshaping how English is taught, learned, and assessed. In English Language Teaching (ELT), AI presents both unprecedented opportunities and critical challenges, prompting educators, researchers, and policymakers to rethink pedagogy, curriculum, teacher identity, learner agency, and ethical practice. While technological innovation continues to accelerate, the human dimensions of language education—communication, interaction, empathy, criticality, and cultural understanding—remain central to effective teaching and learning. Thus, the theme for The International TESOL Union Conference 2026 (ITU 2026) is “Human–AI Partnership in ELT: Designing Human-Centred, AI-Enabled Pedagogy.”

The ITU 2026 Organising Committee invites educators and researchers to explore how human–AI partnerships can be thoughtfully designed to support meaningful, equitable, and human-centred ELT. We seek contributions that critically examine the pedagogical, theoretical, and practical implications of AI-enhanced language education, while also welcoming work that advances TESOL more broadly across diverse contexts and learner populations.

By bringing together diverse voices from the TESOL community worldwide, ITU2026 aims to foster critical dialogue on how AI can be harnessed—not as a replacement for human educators, but as a partner in designing ELT pedagogies that are ethically grounded, pedagogically sound, and responsive to the evolving needs of English learners worldwide.

We warmly invite you to submit your proposals and join this timely conversation on the use of AI in ELT.

Conference Sub-themes

Submissions related to the conference theme may address:

- Human-centred approaches to AI integration in ELT
- Teacher-AI and learner-AI collaboration in language learning
- AI-supported development of communicative competence, critical thinking, and creativity
- Ethical, inclusive, and responsible use of AI in ELT
- AI and learner autonomy, agency, and motivation
- Assessment, feedback, and evaluation in AI-enabled environments
- Teacher education and professional development for AI-informed pedagogy
- Curriculum and materials design in the age of generative AI
- Other areas in ELT or TESOL
